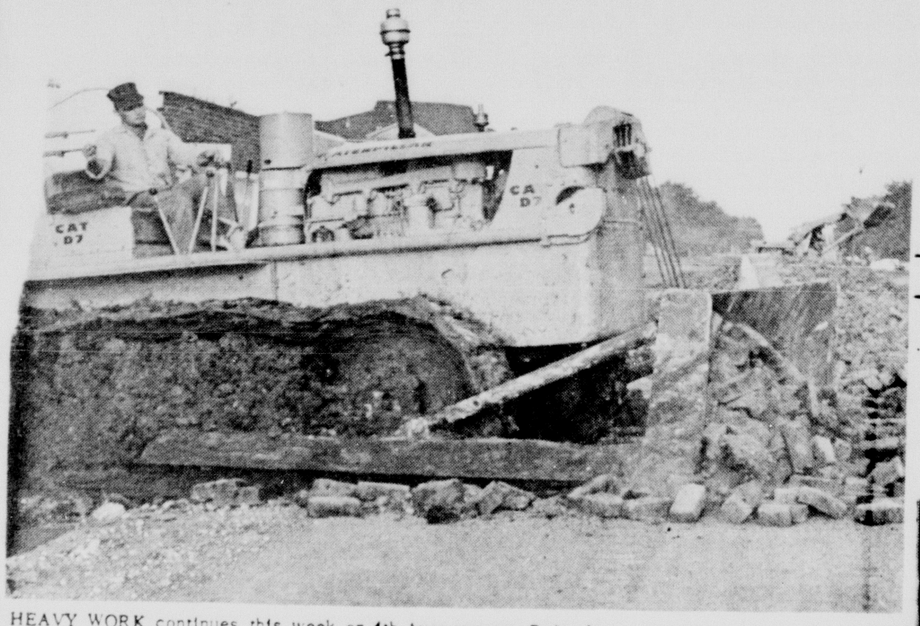
WT Here Saturday



HEAVY WORK continues this week on 4th Avenue west. Rains last week did not slow work on the job. Street is blocked off from 15 Street west to turn to underpass.

Traffic Pattern to Be Presented to City

Traffice pattern around the courthouse square has been adopted by the city planning commission and forwarded to city commissioners.

J. D. Byrd moved that the commission adopt the plan and reccommend it to city commissioners.

Clay Cooper moved to plant trees in islands to be built around the square.

Plan calls for concrete islands on each side of the square and 40 additional parking spaces.

Present were: J. Manly Bryan, J. D. Byrd, Riley Troth, Joe Gidden, Clay Cooper, Raymond Raillard, W. J. Wooten Jr., Mrs. Clyde Warwick, Bill York, Delbert Lowes, C. E. Thompson, L. D. Caldwell and John DeShazo.

Veterinarians to Gather Here for Saturday Meet

About 50 persons are expected to attend a meeting of the Panhandle Veterinary Medical Association in Canyon Saturday.

Dr. J. L. Markham of Canyon is directing plans for the semi-annual meeting of the group, which will be held in the agriculture department at WTSC.

Several area veterinarians will speak to the group during the all-day meeting. Also, several demonstrations are being planned to be held at the college farm and at Dr. Markham's office.

Those attending the meeting will eat lunch together in the Blue Room at the college cafeteria.

In conjunction with Saturday's meeting, the Panhandle Veterinary Medical Association Auxiliary will also hold a meeting. A program is planned by Mrs. J. L. Markham for the women.

The group has been invited to attend the WTSC-Arizona State football game Saturday night at Buffalo Stadium.

Film Series Tickets Now on Sale

Tickets are now on sale to a community film series that will present showings November through April.

"Offerings are among the best of the 20th century with emphasis on recent works," Blackburn said.

Tickets can be obtained from Blackburn, Dr. George deSchweinitz, Bill Moore, Dr. Lowell Harrison, Miss Helen White Moore, David Hanig and a number of other WT faculty members.

First film is "Wild Strawberries," a Swedish film of 1959 directed by Ingmar Bergman. It will be shown November 1-2.

Booster Cards Available

Randall County boys' baseball booster cards are now on sale to raise money for the '60-'61 baseball season.

Managers of teams in the program of last summer will distribute five tickets each to mothers of last year's teams.

Tickets are selling for $5.

It is hoped by persons interested in the summer baseball program that a sufficient number of interested people will support the program.

Pool Baby Buried Sunday

Graveside services for Gregory Bob Pool, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Bob Pool, 705 21st street, were conducted Sunday at 4 p. m. in Dreamland Cemetery.

Rev. Strauss Atkinson, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiated.

Survivors, besides the parents, are two brothers, Perry O'Brien and Terry Joe; one sister, Deborah Marlene; and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Taylor of Andrews and Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Pool of Canyon.

Services were conducted by LaGrone Funeral Home.

NOT EXACTLY dressed for classes at college this week were Linda Cox, Hereford, Jeanne Sneed and Patsy Martin, both of Amarillo. Occasion for the "little girl" dresses was college Kid Day.

Meet Arizona State at Home

College football starts in Canyon Saturday night when the Buffs meet Arizona State University at 7:30.

Game is earmarked with a lot of firsts:

(1) The first home game of the season for West Texas in handsome 20,000-seat Buffalo Stadium.

(2) The first Border Conference game for both teams. Arizona State is defending league champion.

(3) The first "Amarillo Night" ever sponsored by Amarillo retail merchants and football fans.

More than 12,000 fans are expected to be on hand for the 14th meeting between these clubs. The Sun Devils, co-favorites for the Border crown this year with New Mexico State, have won nine and the Buffs four with the last West Texas victory coming in 1947, 35-7.

Coach Frank Kush's speedy squad, winner in 10 of 11 games last year, including a 43-22 triumph over the Buffs, will be a big favorite to make the Buffs their second victim. Arizona State opened last week with a surprising 39-0 rout of Colorado State of the Skyline Conference while West Texas dropped a 38-14 decision to Texas Tech of the Southwest Conference.

The Sun Devils have most of last year's starters returning, including two all-conference choices--halfback Nolan Jones and tackle Jesse Bradford. Both are speedy Negro gridders who do an outstanding job. The Arizona roster is dotted with 15 Pennsylvania products, nine from Michigan and only seven from the home state.

Assistant coach John Roberts, who scouted Arizona State last week, was high in his praise of the Devils. "They have three backfields of equal ability and everyone on the squad seems to be extremely quick. Their passing and running games are both strong and Colorado State never really challenged the Sun Devils' strength."

West Texas coach Joe Kerbel has made four starting lineup changes since reviewing movies of his club's loss to Texas Tech. "We were not dissatisfied with our team's effort," said Kerbel, "we are a young inexperienced team that made a lot of mistakes. However, I liked the way we hit and hustled."

The Buffs came out of the Tech game in good physical condition, although two players reinjured old hurts and may miss Saturday's contest. Bill Bradley, 210-pound guard, is nursing a bruised hand and sore knee, and Bill Dendy, 170-pound halfback who made a 55-yard punt return against Tech, is hobbled by a strained knee.

Daugherty Rites Held

J. C. Daugherty, a brother of J. M. Daugherty of Canyon, died the morning of September 19 in Aspermont.

Burial was held Tuesday in Lubbock. J. M. Daugherty attended the services.

Mr. Daugherty, 87, was born and reared at Azle, west of Fort Worth.

Survivors include his wife; seven children; one other brother, Will Daugherty of Weatherford; and four sisters, Mrs. Myrtle Clayton of Fort Worth, Mrs. Blanch Britain, Mrs. J. T. Landers and Mrs. Will Gilley, all of Azle.

145 Increase Expected In West Texas Enrollment

Continued increase in enrollment at West Texas State College is expected by the official close of registration Wednesday, with an estimated 2,350 students registered on the Canyon campus James P. Cornette, president, has announced.

The 2,350 for the fall semester will represent an increase in "head count" for the campus of about 7 per cent over the final number for last year, when 2,205 were registered. It is also estimated that between 1,100 and 1,150 will be enrolled for classes at the Amarillo Center.

At the end of the sixth day of registration here, more than 2,300 had started registration, Dr. Cornette said.

Dr. Cornette believes that the increase in "full-time student equivalents," the number of students enrolled for a full load of 15 semester hours, will run about 10 per cent. That increase comes from the increase in number of students living on the campus over the number who commute. In general, students living on the campus carry a full load, while commuters usually are not enrolled for the normal load.

All available dormitory space for men has been filled, Dr. Cornette said. Most of the rooms for women are filled, and about 60 women already are living in new Hudspeth Hall, of which only portions are completed.

Well Now At 7,475 Feet

Drilling on the Texas Company Wildcat just north of Canyon had reached 7,475 feet. Completion is expected within the next week or ten days.

Old Settlers Attend Courthouse Program

Nearly 100 old settlers signed the register at the Randall County Old Settler Reunion, held September 16 on the courthouse square.

The reunion was the first event of its kind held in Canyon.

Roland Black of the Chamber of Commerce said there were more old timers present who did not sign the register.

Prentis R. Tate of Sanford, who came to Canyon in 1902, came from the fartherest distance to attend, and Mrs. Sally M. Bosley of Canyon was the oldest person present.

Visiting and old-time fiddling made up the program for the reunion. The Chamber of Commerce served doughnuts and coffee.

OLD settlers who came to Randall County before 1900 are shown above. Standing Hopper, Mrs. Sally M. Bosley, Mrs. B. C. Taylor, Sr., Mrs. J. D. McElroy, in the back row, from left to right, are Lorenzo Wirt, A. C. Thompson of Here- Mrs. E. D. Harrell, Mrs. Bertha Rhoads, and Mrs. H. A. Brown Sr. Not shown ford, Beula Heafner, Mrs. J. A. Commissioners Set Hearing for Budget

County auditor E. T. Cummings reviewed the proposed budget for Randall County's 1961 fiscal year for commissioners court Monday.

Public hearing on the budget was scheduled for October 17 at 2 p. m. in commissioners courtroom in the courthouse.

The budget is estimated at $725,954, compared with $770,670 for this fiscal year.

During discussion of the best date for a public hearing, Clarence Beckman, precinct 2 commissioner, asked for a detailed examination of the budget to prevent mistakes.

Beckman said he knew of errors that had resulted in overpayment of state funds to Umbarger School from the Texas Education Agency.

The overpayments are being returned by the school to the state.

Cummings said the mistake that resulted in the overpayments would not show on the county budget.

During three school years, starting with 1955-56 and ending with 1957-58, Umbarger School received $8,755 in overpayments of salary and operational payments. Texas Education Agency computed payments on the basis of eligible number of teachers for aid. Umbarger employed only four.

A TEA official said estimates now are figured on the actual number of teachers hired.

N teacher at Umbarger received any of the payments, since they are paid the minimum provided by state law.

Teachers did repay $2,300 overpayment, made because one teacher did not have the qualifications being paid for.

In other business, commissioners canvassed Saturday's election returns. Two proposals of a $350,000 bond issue were rejected by voters. Funds from the issue would have been used to purchase right-of-way for highway construction.

Commissioners received a letter from Mid-Continental Waterproofing Co., with a bid of $772 to seal cracks in courthouse masonry. The court decided to take no action until they could inspect the company's work.

In another attempt to get federal government approval of the county's Civil Defense program, commissioners court signed and filed plans. Several previous attempts had been rejected because of improper forms in the application.

Vote Kills Bond Issue

Randall County voters went to the polls Saturday to defeat a $350,000 bond issue proposed to purchase right-of-way for an Amarillo loop and a Washington Street overpass.

Requiring two-thirds of voters' approval both issues fell short. The overpass proposal had a majority, 813 for-756 against while the loop failed with 473 for-1098 against.

Qualified to vote were those who, in addition to meeting regular voting requirements, had rendered taxable property in the county for taxation.

Broken down into two issues, $225,000 would have gone for loop right-of-way and the other $175,000 was to be used for right-of-way for an over pass at the railroad crossing on Washington Street.

SEEN AT RANDOM:

Fourth Avenue so busy you can hardly get across; downtown businesses trying to place new merchandise on display as fast as they sell it; employers getting adjusted to part-time students' new schedules, freshmen in green caps; Mr. Warren and Mr. Steve talking it over on 15th Street; mothers stocking up on new materials and patterns for school children; Monday quarterbackers everywhere; churches swinging into a full new fiscal year; clubs planning new projects and activities; gardeners and farmers holding back an early frost; and I love it all, don't you!

FROM THE CANYON RIM

We enjoyed the trip on the special Santa Fe train to Lubbock Saturday almost as much as we enjoyed the game. There were 481 persons aboard and we have never been thrown in with a finer group.

Bob Dowell, a long-time friend of ours, served fried chicken to all hands with the bulk of the profit going to one of the student associations at WT. Buff Morris was aboard and as usual was doing a fine job with the youngsters.

Buff seems to have a way with young folks. There is no doubt in the minds of those who have observed him that he just naturally loves young people and we believe that is the big reason he gets on with them.

It was our first time to be around a college group since we were in college ourselves and that is more years ago than we like to remember. It didn't take us long to warm up to the enthusiasm aboard.

There wasn't a single incident of rowdiness aboard the train, as far as we know. To the college freshmen aboard the special train was a big adventure as it was to one newspaperman aboard.

The Santa Fe folks went out of their way to make the trip an enjoyable one. J. M. Patterson, traveling freight and passenger agent, commented on the fine behavior aboard the train and especially commended the college students who rode the special.

Before the train pulled up to the Canyon Santa Fe Station there already was talk of outfitting another special to a WT game later in the season.

We'll be looking forward to it.

• • • •

Speaking of the Santa Fe, we appreciate that railroad. Throughout its history it has been a part of the communities it has served. It has played a prominent role in the development of this country and its people still are active in the civic affairs of the communities in which they live.

We are glad to be living on the Santa Fe Line.

• • • •

Another firm that goes out of its way to serve its communities is Southwestern Public Service Company. We have been associated with Southwestern Public Service Company for the past 15 years and have done business with that firm as a newspaper publisher for the past nine years.

We've never met a Southwestern Public Service Company manager who wasn't 100 percent and that goes for Bill Gilstrap, the top man, in Amarillo, to Joe Gidden, the manager of the SWPC office in Canyon.

Even the Southwestern Public Service Company office girls have sunny dispositions. You will seldom hear a voice sweeter or see a smile more cheerful than in the SWPC office anywhere you go.

Does it pay? Southwestern Public Service Company seldom gets a rumble when its management asks for a rate raise. Southwestern's tax figures are seldom disputed by tax boards across the area because they are usually correct.

just gayle

We intended to use something humorous this week about the beginning of another college term, but as one seasoned student said, there isn't anything humorous about college. And we quote: "People either gripe, or--they gripe. Gripe if it isn't done, and gripe if it is done. That's all there is to college." Truly, this is a seasoned student, but yet, we freshmen are still optimistic.

Freshmen emotions during this first week of school at WTSC have progressed through each stage from amazement to just plain ole' "What am I doing here?" or "I wanna go home." The latter sentiment isn't heard as often as might be thought, although two girls have already left for home.

We hope to have almost exclusively college notes in this column. Your help is needed.

Fall rush is being held this week at WT. Girls who wish to pledge a sorority must have attended WT at least one semester before being eligible for sorority membership.

Here's hoping that the love that the freshmen feel for their slime caps doesn't die before the end of the slime cap-wearing period. This is really a rather foolish statement, for most of the girls are already griping (notice paragraph one of this column) about the charming green chapeaus, and many of the boys have simply quit wearing the beanies. Most often heard complaint: "It mashes my hair." One girl went home this past weekend and demanded that a permanent be put into her hair because her curls couldn't take the crushing effect of the beanie.

By the way, although some disagree, it is accepted that girls from Cousins Hall wear the beanie bill up, and girls of Randall Hall wear the bill down.

Most fancy of the slime caps is worn by Carnetta Burgett of Shallowater. Her cap is decorated with silver glitter.

Celebrity at WTSC is Miss Barbara Shepard of Amarillo, who was Miss Amarillo several years ago. She attends WTSC and is a secretary in the speech department.

Methodists To Gather In Lubbock

Several Canyon Methodists plan to attend a mass meeting in Lubbock Wednesday.

Bishop Arthur J. Moore, former bishop of the Atlanta, Georgia, area and now retired, will be speaker at the meeting of the Northwest Texas Conference Methodists.

Ministers and laymen of the conference will meet at First Methodist Church, Lubbock, all day for an initial planning period of the evangelism and stewardship program for next year.

Rev. C. Newton Starnes is pastor of the local church, and L. H. Brotherton is church lay leader.

130 Attend Church Picnic

About 130 persons attended a joint picnic of the congregations of the Methodist and Christian churches Sunday evening.

Rev. Dale Harter of the Christian church spoke at the evening worship service. The event was held at Ceta Canyon Methodist Camp.

A basket lunch was served, and those attending participated in various recreational activities.

Ballad Singer Entertains

An autumn leaves theme was used for decorations at the party. Refreshments were prepared by Mesdames Bob Alpared by Mesdames Bob Allford, W. B. Harris, and Dale Killingsworth. Mrs. Virgil Henson assisted in serving.

Eagles to Meet Dumas Friday in Game There

Canyon Eagles will be out to win Friday night when they meet the Dumas Demons there.

Dropping the last two games, the squad is fired for victory over the Demons. Last year the Eagles lost to the Demons, 16-6.

In last week's game with the Perryton Rangers the Eagles chalked up their second loss for the season.

The Rangers began scoring early in the first quarter after kicking off to the Eagles. Carrying over the scoring run from the 22-yard line was Raymond McGarrough.

Second tally came in the first quarter when McGarrough again ran the ball over from the 9. Game was 12-0 at the end of the first quarter.

At the half the score stood at Perryton 18, Canyon 0.

Perryton took the kickoff in the second half and immediately started a touchdown drive from their own 43 yard line. McGarrough, Thompson and Tim Wright did most of the heavy work in the drive and Wright ran the ball over for Perryton's final touchdown in the game. McGarrough took the conversion over for another 2 points to bring the score to 26-0.

After receiving the kickoff in the last of the third quarter, Canyon made its first first down on rushes by Ralph Gabe and Elmer Oberst.

Game was nip and tuck until last of the fourth when Canyon began a drive stacking up two more first downs. Drive came to a sudden halt when Thompson nabbed an Eagle pass.

Game ended eight plays later stopping another Perryton drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan Laughery from Joliet, Montana, and Mr. and Mrs. Mark Laughery of Billings, Montana, are visiting a sister, Mrs. P. V. Winstead, and other relatives in Canyon.

College Officials Tell Way to Buff Stadium

Because of the maze of roads in the vicinity of Buffalo Stadium, college officials thought it expedient to direct fans how best to reach the stadium for Saturday night's game.

People traveling north should get on the expressway's east frontal road immediately after the first underpass in north Canyon.

People from Hereford should go over the expressway overpass and then turn north on the frontal road rather than taking the expressway. They should take the first available right-hand turn after crossing the overpass.

Persons from the north should get on the east frontal road at the Rockwell Road overpass about 2 miles north of the stadium.

Athletic department officials reminded fans that kick-off is 7:30 p. m.

In the receiving line were Mrs. McCormick, Nancy, and Mrs. Williams, mother of the prospective bridegroom.

Laid with a white eyelet embroidered cloth, the silver appointed serving table was centered with an artistic pedestal arrangement of purple asters with streamers tied to miniature bells flanking the arrangement. The wedding date, November 12 was revealed in silver lettering on one bell, and names of the couple were inscribed on the other bell.

Brotherton, Mann Married In First Methodist Church

First Methodist Church of Canyon was the scene of the wedding uniting Miss Betty Jane Brotherton and Chester L. Mann jr. in marriage.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Brotherton of Canyon, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Mann sr. of Clarendon.

Ushers were Larry and Richie Brotherton, brothers of the bride, James Graham of Clarendon, and Paul Gene Nelson of Amarillo.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, H. L. Brotherton. She was attired in a floor length white satin dress and an over the shoulder veil of illusion. Her bouquet was of gardenias.

SOCIETY NOTES

Scroggins, Needham Exchange Vows in Double Ring Rites

A new season of television is beginning.

Along with the returning shows, more than 50 new shows will take to the airways.

A characteristic of the new season is the increase of programming in comedy and informational programs. Some 16 new comedy shows will start the season, and six public affairs and documentary shows have been scheduled for prime viewing spots. With this an election year, most of the informational shows are devoted to the presidential election.

A few new westerns and private eye shows will also make debuts this season. However, there are many carryovers from last season in this field. Criticism of violence has lead to a crackdown in many programs, but there should still be enough violence left for many viewers.

The best part of the new season is the elimination of reruns.

Miss Mary Von Scroggins of Amarillo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Scroggins of Wayside, and James Edwin Needham of Amarillo exchanged wedding vows in a candlelight ceremony September 17 at 8 p. m. in the home of her parents.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Needham of Amarillo.

Rev. Leroy Looper, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church of Tulia, performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with arrangements of purple and bronze dahlias.

Miss Linda Scroggins, sister of the bride, served as candlelighter. She wore a dress of gold taffeta with a matching headband and net veil and a corsage of yellow roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Whitten of Amarillo attended the couple. Mrs. Whitten wore a dress of wood violet taffeta with beige accessories and a corsage of bronze asters.

Mrs. Scroggins, mother of the bride, wore a dress of shaded toast lace over taffeta, with dark brown accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

A reception immediately followed after the wedding. The bride's table was covered with an ecru lace cloth and centered with yellow and bronze asters, flanked by lighted yellow tapers in crystal candleholders.

Miss Linda Scroggins presided at the crystal punch bowl as Mrs. Harry Whitten served the wedding cake. Later Mr. and Mrs. Whitten honored the bride and bridegroom with a supper in the Crossroads Inn in Amarillo.

For a wedding trip to Oklahoma, the bride chose to travel in a two piece wool beige suit with brown alligator accessories and a corsage of yellow roses from the bridal bouquet.

After the wedding trip the couple will be at home at 900 Madison Street, Amarillo.

The bride is a graduate of Draughon's Business College and is employed at Boys' Ranch headquarters in Amarillo. The bridegroom attended school in Amarillo, has served with the armed forces, and is presently employed by Amarillo Packing Company.

Pre-nuptial courtesies included a miscellaneous shower given by Mesdames Marry Burris, Sandra Follis, Linda Phillips, and Julia Whitten.

The Tri-State Fair in Amarillo has had an invitational show of professional art work for the past two years.

The artists who are asked to show are the better known artists of Texas, New Mexico, and Oklahoma. Professional artists are given the name "professional" after they sell an art work.

Then there are thirty-five pieces of work by area artists chosen by a jury to hang side by side with the professional artists' work.

Now the people will become acquainted with what the top artists are doing and this appears to be the purpose of the invitational show.

Both Look and Life Magazines have carried sections on types of art today. Life had several pages devoted to art values in the issue of September 19. Grandma Moses was given much attention in this same issue. It honored her with recognition on her 100 birthday.

Look Magazine had a section in the September 27 issue called "Women of American Art." This article gave several women special credit for their work. The most important of these women appeared to be Georgia O'Keefe, who the author said, "Miss O'Keefe's work has earned a place for her as an outstanding American painter of any period."

So we certainly are being exposed to many different types of art in the world today, day.

But it seems that the amateur artist needs to be shown more often and in bigger quantities. After all the professional artist has gained his recognition.

For the large part, the Fair visitors are from the many surrounding towns near Amarillo. I think they would enjoy seeing work from their own hometowns.

Go, Look, and be Exposed! Decide what you think and give the whole thing some serious thought. It can be quite an experience.

We have an opportunity each year to show a large exhibition of college students', high school students' and amateur artists work. There are hundreds of people painting and doing crafts of all kinds. They are all around us. They do exceptional work. It could be shown with pride in any exhibition.

This is our Tri-State Fair and it is to our advantage to let all the visitors know of the many wonderful things that are going on right in our own backyard.

Speaking of recognizing our area arts, Lubbock's South Plains Art Guild has published a book called "Art On The Texas Plains" by Elsie Montgomery Wilhanks.

This book tells the story of art and artist in the area surrounding Lubbock from the earliest times to the present.

The region's colorful background is sketched to give the reader an understanding of the plains country where Indian tribes and buffaloes were found less than a century ago.

A strong interest in art was apparent among the first settlers, many of whom were men and women of culture and education. As the region developed, the pioneers built churches, schools, colleges, and organized fairs, exhibitions, art and cultural clubs.

The present art movement sprang out of the vigorous, creative surge which followed World War II. The South Plains Art Guild, organized in 1951, served to unite the art interests of the community.

Representative painters and craftsmen of today are presented together with examples of their work. In all, the book contains 254 photographs of art, artists and related topics.

RECORD RAMBLINGS IV

The next week or two will be concerned with record playing equipment. It is my unsolicited opinion that money for money, it is always better to buy and intelligently picked assortment of component parts rather than a ready-made console containing the whole works. Like most things, you get the sound you pay for, but for the money it is better to buy specialized equipment of good design, rather than paying for some fancy furniture. It takes absolutely no skill to put component parts together. In ten years of happy experience with wire or make a more difficult connection than tightening a screw around a radio aerial wire. For those who wish to have the pleasure of putting their own machinery together, plus the economy, kits for assembly are available.

In this day I feel no one should consider a non-stereo set, unless for economics, reasons it is necessary to start with a mono which can be expanded. The price will run from an absolute minimum of $99.50 to over $4000. Any kind of a satisfactory start will be around $200 up. There are several component parts dealers in the Golden Spread who can be found easily. Any of the magazine stores will have several monthly and yearly publications explaining almost anything. Half the fun is spending six months or more reading and listening.

There are four sources of sound for your set: record player, FM, AM, and tape. It is easy to start with one and add on. First should be records, then FM-AM, and finally tape. May I digress to make the important observation that under no circumstances is it advisable to put one of your speaker systems in the same cabinet with the record player and the amplifier. Any time the volume is turned way up, or the base is strong, there is what is called a feed back. The vibrations from the speaker are mechanically picked up and the electric currents are picked to be played in a circle, badly distorting the music. This is one of the fundimental objections to the usual console set. Everything except the speaker can be together. Stromberg-Carlson have made a very expensive stereo console in which they have managed to isolate the speakers with some kind of a rubber suspension, which works pretty well. Pilot has done something with this, not very well to my opinion.

The first decision is whether to buy a player with an automatic record changer or whether to buy a turn table type which will play only one record at a time. There is no question that the turn table plays records a little better. In order to exert the force necessary to activate the automatic record changer, they stylus (or needle) pressure must be greater on the record. This causes a little more wear. Each time a record falls to the turn table, it is a little higher in position than the one before. This slightly changes the pressure and the angle of the stylus, which changes the quality of the tone. The turn table type is surprisingly more expensive since it contains a better motor and has a carefully machined, quite heavy table. The motor should be at least 4 pole, and preferably hysteresis.

Record changer types have been greatly much improved. If they are mostly for background music and the customer is lazy, they will do very well. Your table changer will run somewhere from $35 to $125. This does not include the cartridge, or head, which contains the stylus. These are complicated and are of several basic types which are of no interest to anyone other than an engineer. Most of the standard ones are good, but have little different sounds.

A stereo head will play mono records, but a mono head will ruin stereo records. Listen to several to find what will suit. The lower price will be around $22-$25 unless you go into something pretty fancy. The head will plug into the standard tone arm of an automatic record player, but for a turn table type, a separate tone arm must be bought. Nearly all manufacturers make a good one.

The cartridge feeds the music in the form of a tremendously minute electrical current into the preamplifier. The preamp magnifies the current until it is great enough to be handled by the regular amplifier. The preamp does many other jobs. It has connections for all the various sources of sound, such as record, tape, radio, microphone, etc. It varies the treble and bass, whose controls are on the preamp. It does an important job in compensation for for records and tape. When records are cut, they are purposely distorted. The treble is accentuated and the bass is cut down in order for there to be a more efficient use of the record groove, which there is no need to explain here. The preamp "undistorts" the music by accentuating the bass and cutting down the treble just opposite to the record cutting. This record distortion is the same for all modern records and is known as the RIAA curve. This information is on most record jackets. The stereo amplifier does these jobs for both the currents, for the stereo record and the cartridge picking it up produce two sets of sound carried by two different electrical systems. It also balances the stereo so that the proper effect is obtained despite differences in speakers, room, etc. The preceeding equipment is a must. Next week I will discuss the amplifier and speakers.

Dallas will have five famous operas during the opera season in their city.

Monica Sinclair, distinguished mezzo soprano of London's Convent Garden and continental opera, will make her debut in Dallas Civic Opera production of Handel's "Alcina" in November, Lawrence Kelly, General manager, has announced.

Miss Sinclair, a renowned Handel specialist, is known in this country for her recordings under Columbia, RCA, Victor, Angel, Capitol and Westminister labels. She will sing the role of Bradamante, rival of the temptress, Alcina. Joan Sutherland will sing the title role which she created last February for Teatro la Fenice, Venice Italy, and Blanche Thebom will sing the mezzo role of Rugglero.

There will be more about these great opera treats later on.

I noticed in a paint-up, clean-up bulletin this week a little item that I thought I would pass on to my readers. For a children's playroom or for an outside patio, nail kegs can be collected and painted white, then paint each of the metal strips with bright colored enamels. These make durable stools for your picnic table and add a bright note to your decorating.

ART ODDITY FOR THE WEEK:

"Quotation of the Day" from the New York Times chose this statement from Jacob Lipkin, a New York artist:

"Abstract art is the fad of tasteless taste-makers who hate humanity and nature. It will pass in time."

Lipkin, who sculpts marble whales or other animals and large mahogany heads, owed $153 for the purchase of six dolly wheels used in moving blocks of stone. In artist fashion, he likes to have as little to do with money as possible. He pays most of his bills with sculpture, by barter. But the man who sells the dolly wheels collects nothing but abstract art.

But this did not appease the city marshall, who was about to levy on the sculptor's goods and chattels. It took a laywer to do that, a lawyer who was willing to accept an ebony flying goose for his fee. If Lipkin had been resourceful he might have paid for the dollies with a non-representational montage or mobile of chips from his studio floor.

But then we might not have had his contribution to the controversy over modern art. It is a judgment akin to others voiced on Wagnerian opera, impressionism and cubism. The present round of abstractionism probably will pass. . .but only after it has made some contribution at least to design and after its devotees have been dismissed as traditionalists by some still newer school.

Mrs. Karl Ellison Has Hobby Of Growing African Violets

Anyone who has tried growing African violets knows it's a real chore. But for Mrs. Karl Ellison it's a hobby that takes up most of her time and provides a lot of fun.

Mrs. Ellison began growing violets 3 and one-half years ago. "A friend gave me some leaves to plant and I got impatient," she remembers. "Now I have over 75 varieties."

PLANTS vary in size and number of blooms with age. Above, Mrs. Karl Ellison holds one of the better, older plants she has in her "back yard greenhouse."

To grow African violets, she relates, one must let the leaf root in a special soil and then transplant the young plants. This first step takes about a month.

After the roots are re-planted there is a 9-month waiting period for the bloom.

Mrs. Ellison says that you can start with seeds but this is much more difficult. "The seeds are like dust," she says.

The African violet is a plant that must be pampered if it is to thrive. Mrs. Ellison has a greenhouse behind her home and there she cares for the plants. The greenhouse is equipped with an air conditioner for summer and a heater for winter. A thermostat keeps the temperature as near 70 degrees as possible.

African violets come in many different varieties. There are plain and ruffled, to mention two. It came to America from Africa. There it is native but the plants found in America today hardly resemble the African cousins. Selective pollination has produced a more beautiful plant--though it is more dainty. Mrs. Ellison says that she has heard that the violets will grow outside in some climates, but they will not do well here.

Helping her with the time-consuming hobby is her husband. Retired from West Texas State College for the past two years he does the heavier work around the greenhouse--and even does some carpentry work when needed.

Ellison added another room to the greenhouse not long ago and expects that he will have to make more room in the near future.

Mrs. Ellison has 1100 plants representing about 75 different varieties.
